

As Much as I Love You

As much as I love you...

I have to learn to hate you as much as I love you.

I gently touch my face and imagine it is you touching me.

I remember how you did.

I gently caress my neck and relax with such ease.

I feel the sudden jolt of the fire that is burning through my nerves.

I take a deep breath in and hold it until I realize I need another breath.

I slowly open my eyes and remember that you're not here and I have to learn to hate you as much as I love you.

April Greear